Dear Mr. Syropoulo,

Regarding your e-mail of yesterday, August 24 below, please note that our records do not show your name as a user under Canaccord Genuity's subscription to Petroleum Intelligence Weekly. Please let me know if you'd like to subscribe and I will put you in touch with an appropriate person at Energy Intelligence who can help with a license that would provide additional copies of the publication. Please let me know if that would be of interest.

Sincerely,
Deborah A. Brown

Cheap Oil Good for GDP – In Time

It would be premature to give up on the promised broader economic benefits of lower oil prices in oil importing countries, despite all the talk of late of the failure of the US economy, in particular, and the global ...

Kirkuk: Key to Iraq's Future

Kirkuk -- the birthplace of Iraq's oil industry -- stands on the front lines of the war with the radical Islamic State group and also at the nexus of the conflict over oil and budget revenues that divides Baghdad and the ...

US E&Ps' Financial Breaking Point

With the financial health of US independent producers something of a ticking time bomb, there's little solace to be found in US benchmark crude's recent descent back below $50 per barrel.

How Serious Are Iran's LNG Plans?

It's a terrible time to be investing in LNG. The market is well supplied, big new volumes are planned from cheap shale gas in North America and prevailing gas prices remain low.
